AN SVP INDIA GIFTING CATALOGUE

Dear Partner,

We hope everyone is keeping healthy and infected by the joy of this season!

We have compiled a lovely catalogue with products of NGOs supported by SVP India. We are confident that you, your family and friends would find this interesting. Given the timing, you could also consider these as gifts as celebration for Diwali. Every gift you purchase, we promise, will widen at least one smile, bring some additional happiness to at least one household.

Out of the 15 organizations listed here, the first 6 have a direct link listed under 'Ordering Information' for you to make purchases of displayed products/hampers. The other 9 can easily be reached via email/WhatsApp and they will respond to you with details.

We appreciate your commitment to encouraging these organizations in their quest to make difference in civil society. This one small additional gesture will help spread more smiles across India.

Happy Shopping!

The SVP India Team

The Just Change India Producer Company (JCIPC) grew out of ACCORD, which has been working since 1986 with the adivasis of Gudalur Valley in the Nilgiris. 4000 Adivasi families joined forces to form the Adivasi Munnetra Sangam (AMS). AMS with three other community groups established JCIPC to ensure fair and just prices for their products – a market where everyone makes a living and no one makes a killing!

The FIRST PEOPLE'S ENTERPRISE is the brand under which Adivasi products are marketed.

Why We Exist

Lantana is one of the world's most invasive weeds.

It has taken over nearly 40% of the forests in MM Hills and BR Hills, where the Soliga tribal communities live.

It's so dense and thick that even animals find it hard to walk through it. It's so stubborn that even when lantana is burned away, it grows back.

The problem is that the Soliga communities are hunter gatherers, who rely on the Non-Timber Forest Products (NTFPs), like wild honey and Indian gooseberries, to earn their daily living.

Even before lantana took over, they were living on less than $1/day.

But when lantana took over the forests, it significantly reduced their ability to earn the small livelihood they had.

Asoka Trust for Research in Ecology and the Environment (ATREE) has been working with the Soliga communities for over 20 years. Through their research they realised that this stubborn weed could actually be used as a new material, to make anything from custom art pieces to furniture.

Given the fact that cane and bamboo were becoming harder to source and find, ATREE thought lantana could be a sustainable alternative

Our Goal:

By 2030 we will create livelihoods for 10,000 people through the removal of 500,000 hectare of invasive plant species from Indian landscapes.

THE LOCAL GIFT BOX

Over the years, festive gifting has become an integral part of our culture. But have you ever thought of the social impact of your gifting choices? Won't it be a lot more satisfying to share the joy of gifting with the maker as well?

Keeping this in mind, Kaarigar Clinic has come up with a simple aim to help sustain the livelihoods of some of the most vulnerable artisans of India. By collectively celebrating their creative skills, we can help bring about a positive change in their confidence and dignity.

One-of-a-kind hand-crafted gifts, specially for you and your loved ones.

<https://indha.in/>

indha@indha.org

Project Indha was started by Literacy India as an offshoot of Project Karigari. Into its eleventh year now, Indha has touched the lives of scores of women, lifting them out of poverty and giving them a reason to smile. At Indha, women receive vocational training in sewing, tailoring, block printing, vermicomposting, leaf plate making, manufacturing recycled, handmade paper and all kinds of paper products, thereby living upto Literacy India's vision to empower disadvantaged women and children.

The idea for Project Indha evolved from the rising financial crises in families, caused due to unemployment and many social evils. The youth also seemed to be disillusioned due to a lack of employment opportunities

Join us in spreading light and enabling meaningful impact this Diwali

Craftizen Foundation was founded in 2014 with a vision to build an ecosystem to preserve, evolve & retain Indian craft and artisanal skills as an integral part of our cultural fabric. We provide market-driven, skill training and capacity building to enable sustainable livelihoods for persons with intellectual disability and women from underprivileged backgrounds. We are focused on meaningful engagement with corporates and patrons to bridge the skill-income gap for marginalised communities and traditional artisan groups. To date, our programs have impacted 2,000 beneficiaries in 20 craft based livelihoods centres across Bangalore, Hyderabad & Kolkata.

Craftizen

Livelihoods for Marginalised Communities

Our products are lovingly handcrafted by 200 persons with intellectual disability and 50 women from low-income communities who have been trained at our livelihood centres in Bangalore and Hyderabad.

During the current COVID climate, when so many have lost their livelihoods, we are humbled with the support that we have received to ensure continuous orders for our women artisans. However our artisans with ID who are at a higher risk category have been confined to their homes. While we have provided ration kits to sustain them so far, this Diwali season we could enable work from home for them to resume production and they are all eagerly looking forward to your patronage.

Eco-Friendly Products

One of our core values is our commitment to the Environment by focusing on recycling and upcycling a range of discards to convert them into unique, functional products such as Rangoli colours, T-lite holders and Eco-petals. We are also committed to using natural materials that are biodegradable.
